What are the readers of Auxiliary magazine saying?*

“It provides the service it is intended to provide. As a unit president, I have used it at many meetings. I know that our chaplain has used it at every meeting.”

“I enjoy getting the ALA magazine in the mail. It is the first magazine I read of my mail!”

“I like the whole thing. Every article is very thorough and full of details.”

“I would not have as much information available to me if it were not for the magazine.”

“I enjoy the magazine totally.”

“No complaints, very satisfied.”

“The information helps me to understand more about how other parts of our Auxiliary does things and more about our veterans.”

“Keeps me in touch with all that is happening.”

“I find information I can’t find elsewhere.”

“More recent articles have given information about women veterans’ concerns and families of returning veterans. Such issues are rarely addressed in media outlets where I live.”

“I’m a relatively new ALA member. I find the magazine greatly expands my knowledge of the organization.”

“I read the ALA magazine from front to back.”

“As a longtime unit officer, it has helped me keep up with current veterans issues and the Auxiliary approach to supporting them.”

“I enjoy reading the magazine; it is very informative.”

With approximately 565,000 members in almost 8,000 communities across the nation, the American Legion Auxiliary represents a major market.

Since 1919, members of the American Legion Auxiliary have banded together to support veterans and military serving our great nation as well as children and the communities in which our members live. The American Legion Auxiliary brings generations of experience for the support of all things American. Auxiliary magazine addresses the interests and values of the American Legion Auxiliary members who support the men and women who have served and continue to serve.

Auxiliary readers include male and female spouses, mothers, grandmothers, sisters, daughters, and granddaughters of millions of veterans who are members of The American Legion and/or deceased veterans. Some Auxiliary members are veterans themselves. Auxiliary is the voice of grassroots, patriotic readers who passionately care about veterans, the military, and their families.

The American Legion Auxiliary website, www.ALAforVeterans.org, offers opportunities for you to see members of the American Legion Auxiliary as they support their communities, veterans, and children, as well as a chance to promote your products and services.

WHY ADVERTISE IN AUXILIARY MAGAZINE?

Auxiliary inspires action among its recipients. Auxiliary members are concerned about veterans, the military, and their families. These readers are also concerned about providing service in their communities — Service Not Self is a motto they live by. The mission of the American Legion Auxiliary is to inform and inspire American citizens on the general-interest issues relating to national security, veterans, patriotism, health and welfare of children, and community service.

Our 2022 survey by Readex Research found that about half (48%) of our audience has been motivated to do something in the past 12 months based on reading their issues. Most commonly they have discussed or passed along an article (24%), or got involved or volunteered (16%) as a result of reading Auxiliary magazine. Fully 9% have made purchases of an advertised product or service, and 10% have visited advertisers’ websites.*

One in three Auxiliary members (31%) pass their issues of Auxiliary along to others (spouse, parent, grandparent, etc.) inside or outside of their homes. The average recipient passes their issues along to 0.33 other people, extending the reach of the publication to more than 215,000 additional readers, above and beyond the circulation.*

Recipients were asked to rate the publication on how well it serves their information needs about the American Legion Auxiliary and supporting veterans issues. Half of recipients (57%) indicated high ratings, compared with only 8% providing low ratings.*

86% of Auxiliary readers read “most,” “some,” or “all” of a typical issue of Auxiliary. One in five recipients spend at least an hour reading their issues of Auxiliary.*

Also, complimentary copies of Auxiliary magazine are provided to over 10,000 American Legion posts, U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs hospitals and clinics, National Association of State Directors of VA, U.S. Congress, U.S. Senators, and USO and Fisher House locations.

Additionally, did you know?

- Nearly three in four members (71%) report checking for country of manufacture, when purchasing products, at least often. Four in five (80%) report that it is important to them that the products they purchase are made in the United States.
- More than 6.2 million hours of service are provided by American Legion Auxiliary members in a single year.

CONTRACT AND COPY REGULATIONS

DISPOSITION OF REPRODUCTION MATERIAL

Unless definite disposition instructions are given, materials will be destroyed after one year.

1. Publisher will not be bound by any conditions, printed or otherwise, appearing on any type of advertising order form or copy instructions when such conditions conflict with the conditions and specifications set forth in this rate schedule.

2. Verbal agreements are void and will not be consented to by the publisher. The forwarding of an order is construed as an acceptance of all the rates and conditions under which advertising space is sold at that time. Failure to make the advertising order correspond with provisions of this rate schedule is regarded only as a clerical error and publication will be made and invoiced according to the terms of this rate schedule, without further notice.

3. The American Legion Auxiliary has the sole and exclusive right to use the name American Legion Auxiliary. Unauthorized use of the name and/or emblem of the American Legion Auxiliary is prohibited. Permission to use the name or emblem of the American Legion Auxiliary may only be granted by the National Secretary in appropriate circumstances. All such requests for permission by the advertisers should be submitted to the publisher in writing.

4. Any reference to the American Legion Auxiliary’s Auxiliary, the American Legion Auxiliary or its members, departments or units in advertising copy, promotional material or merchandising in any form by the advertiser or advertising agency submitting the advertisement is subject to the prior written approval of the publisher and the American Legion Auxiliary for each use. The mere fact that such references may appear in a printed advertisement does not show approval or endorsement of the advertisement.

5. No advertisement will be accepted subject to exclusion of any other advertiser or product in any issue.

6. Cancellation(s) by the advertiser or advertising agency after the closing date published in this rate schedule will not relieve the advertiser or advertising agency of the obligation to make full payment promptly for the advertising space at issue.

7. Contracts or orders must be bona fide and must specify a definite schedule of insertions, issues and size of space.

8. Publisher is not liable for delays in delivery or for non-delivery, failure to insert advertisement, erroneous insertion of advertisement or materials, or for non-publication, in the event of act of God; action by any governmental or quasi-governmental entity, fire, flood, insurrection, riot, explosion, embargo, strikes whether legal or illegal, labor or material shortage, transportation interruption of any kind, work slowdown or any condition beyond the immediate control of the publisher.

9. Contracts must be completed within one year from date of first insertion to qualify for multiple-frequency discounts. Multiple-frequency discounts are payable only when earned unless publisher has agreed otherwise in advance. Contracts subject to prevailing rates.

10. Rates and conditions are subject to change without notice.

11. Blanket orders, reservation orders and rate-holder orders are not accepted.

12. All copy, text, display and illustrations are published upon the representation, understanding and agreement by the advertiser and the advertising agency that the advertiser and advertising agency are fully authorized; have secured proper written consents for the use of names, photographs, art and testimonials of any living person and may lawfully publish and cause such publication to be made. In consideration of publication of any advertisement, the advertiser and advertising agency agree, jointly and severally, to indemnify and hold harmless Auxiliary, the American Legion Auxiliary, its officers, agents and employees, against all costs and expenses (including attorney’s fees) and any and all losses, judgments, fees, claims, damages, civil penalties, fines (when allowed by law) and charges resulting from the publication of the contents of the advertisement, including, without limitation, claims or suits for libel, violation of right of privacy, tort, copyright infringement or plagiarism.

13. Acceptance of advertising for any product or service is subject to investigation of the product or service, and of the claims made for it upon its package, labels and accompanying materials.

14. When change of copy is not received by closing date specified in this rate schedule, copy published in previous issue in which advertisement appeared will be inserted and invoiced, and the advertiser and advertising agency agree to pay according to rates and conditions in this rate schedule.

15. Publisher reserves the right to insert the words “advertisement” or “paid advertisement” above or below any copy at any time, and advertiser and advertising agency agree to this practice. Publisher further reserves the right to insert the words “This is not an official program of the American Legion Auxiliary” above or below any copy at any time, advertiser and advertising agency agree to this practice.

16. Advertiser and advertising agency agree that the advertiser’s liability for any error will not exceed the amount paid for the space occupied by the advertisement.

17. Advertiser and advertising agency agree that the publisher assumes no liability for errors in key numbers.

18. Advertiser and advertising agency agree that the publisher assumes no liability if, for any reason, it becomes necessary to omit an advertisement.

19. Positioning of all advertising material shall be the sole and exclusive prerogative of the publisher, notwithstanding any preference requested by the advertiser and advertising agency. Any position commitment made by the publisher for a particular issue shall not imply a similar commitment for future issues. If and when such positioning commitments are made by the publisher, a surcharge will be levied. Unless consent is specified in writing at the time of advertising insertion order acknowledgment, the publisher does not agree to or guarantee compliance with any positioning request.

20. Publisher reserves the right to give better position, in the publisher’s judgment, than requested, with no adjustment in rate specified at the time of insertion acknowledgment.

21. When it appears necessary or advisable, the publisher may back coupons, and advertiser and advertising agency agree publisher has the right and is authorized to back coupons without incurring any obligation or liability whatsoever.

22. Advertising material will be held for one year and will be returned if requested in writing. If no written instruction is submitted within one year, advertising agency will accept advertising order form or copy instructions when position of receipt of advertising material, advertiser and advertising agency agree that advertising material will be destroyed without publisher incurring any liability or obligation whatsoever. Advertiser and advertising agency agree that, in the event any advertising material is lost by publisher, publisher shall be liable for a maximum of $100 per page as liquidated damages and not as a penalty.

23. Publisher reserves the right to reject or cancel any advertisement for any reason, at any time, without incurring any liability or obligation whatsoever, even though the advertisement insertion may have been previously acknowledged, accepted, or published in a previous issue, and advertiser and advertising agency agree to this provision.

24. Advertiser and advertising agency agree that no course of dealing shall constitute a change, amendment, alteration or contradiction of any provision contained in this rate schedule. Advertiser and advertising agency further agree that any modification or waiver agreed to by publisher shall not constitute a future commitment to modify or waive the same or any other terms or conditions of this rate schedule.

25. Publisher can make such changes in quality and weight of paper specified in this rate schedule as publisher deems necessary or advisable, and the advertiser and advertising agency agree that publisher reserves such right.

26. The publisher reserves the right to request a sample of any product being sold by mail through the Auxiliary. The advertiser agrees to supply such sample, if requested, free of charge prior to acceptance of any advertisements. The American Legion Auxiliary has no responsibility for return of samples; nor will it even attempt return of a sample unless proper wrapping or packaging material and all containers are supplied and all fees for its return are paid in advance by the advertiser.
